NEED FOR CARE IN DELINQUENCY CASES CITED

Judge Cites Result on Youths When Home Environment Breaks Down.

The need for institutional care of wayward boys when the home environment breaks down was emphasized by Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast yesterday afternoon as he disposed of the cases of three teen-age youths implicated in recent burglaries of electric appliance shops.

All three of the boys came from homes broken by divorce or by death of one parent.

One of the boys, 16, who testified that he alone broke into the places, was sentenced to the boys industrial school at Lancaster for an indeterminite period. With good behavior he may be released in six months.

To the guardians of the other boys, 14 and 16, the judge recommended a strict boys' private school. He placed one of the boys on probation to his grandparents and held his decision in abeyance on the other until the lad's divorced parents agree whether or not to send him away to school. The mother was willing but the father reluctant.

On Suspended Sentence

The youth sentenced to Lancaster was already on a suspended sentence there, received last fall when he admitted stealing a car. The other two boys were already on probation, having admitted being with the first boy when he took the car.

The two boys not sentenced admitted receiving goods which they knew were stolen from the electric shop.

In his remarks to the boys and their guardians yesterday Judge Gast repeated his contention that the source, and cure, of juvenile delinquency lies in the home. Community action has its value, the judge conceded, but, he said, "we need a curfew in the home; not on the courthouse dome, and we must have a recreation center in each family."

The example at home can do incalculable good or harm, the judge declared. Postwar unrest and other conditions sometimes given as causes of juvenile delinquency mean little beside the example of the parents, he declared.

Refers To Mother's Act

He pointed out that when one of the boy's mother discovered he had possession of stolen property, she threw it in the Scioto river, rather than force her son to face the consequences of his acts.

"Grown folks are wondering what is behind all this," he told one of the boys. "In your particular case I do wonder what's behind it."

The lad said on questioning that he attended church and belonged to several youth organizations.

The judge told of having received suggestions and offers of help during the last few days from service clubs, the Boy Scout organization, and other youth-serving groups.

William P. Moloney, attorney representing the youth sent to Lancaster, declared that such conduct as the boy had displayed was definitely psychotic and questioned whether the ends of justice were served by 'punishment. Judge Gast replied that a special request for pschiatric treatment for the boy would be sent to Lancaster.

Two boys accused of car theft will come before the court early next week.

Youth Accused Of Pilfering Auto

Police were today holding an 18-year-old youth in connection with the pilfering of a bowling ball, pair of shoes and other equipment from the automobile of Arthur A. Wintersteller, Friday night near the Erie freight house.

When Mr. Wintersteller reported the theft about 1 a. m. today, the missing items had already been returned to police by Mrs. Edna Warner, proprietor of Edna's restaurant on Hoyle street. She said two boys had left the equipment in her place shortly before.

COAL WALKOUT BAN SOUGHT

U. S. Asks for Speedy Court Action To Remove Strike Threat.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 8 — The government will ask the supreme court Monday to knock out the possibility of a soft coal stoppage March 31 by handing down immediately its mandate against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers.

Union attorneys called a huddle today to decide whether they will oppose the motion by Attorney General Clark.

The justice department, contending the "danger" of a walkout exists, said it would be in "the public interest" for the court to issue its edict without waiting the customary 25 days.

Meanwhile Secretary of the Interior Krug said the government will make no attempt to bring Lewis and the soft coal operators together for contract negotiations "until Lewis has complied with the decision."

Asked by a radio interviewer last night whether the court's decision has lessened the threat of another coal strike, Krug replied: "Yes, temporarily."

The high court's mandate requires Lewis to withdraw his notice ending the union's contract with the government as operator of the coal mines. When he ordered the miners back to work Dec. 7, the UMW chief called a truce only until the end of this month.

Lewis will have five days to observe the mandate. Adding the usual 25-day delay by the supreme court would run the court procedure past the truce deadline.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the senate labor committee, said after Lewis' appearance as a committee witness yesterday he thinks the next coal strike will occur July 1—the date when the government's authority to operate the mines runs out.

SPECULATE ON SUCCESSOR TO COOK AS BANK HEAD

Bucyrus Man Nominated by Truman for Federal Post.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 8 — Capital circles buzzed today with speculation about a successor to Ohio Bank Superintendent Henry Earl Cook of Bucyrus, nominated yesterday by President Truman to the board of the Federal Deposit Insurance Co. subject to senate confirmation.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert said that he had no immediate statement to make and Cook declined to say when he intended to resign his state position.

Cook, if approved by the senate, would fill an unexpired term ending Sept. 6, 1951, which was vacated by the death of Phillips Lee Goldsborough, former Maryland senator. The post pays $10,000 annually.

Cook's term as state bank superintendent expires next Jan. 14. He resigned as president of the Second National bank of Bucyrus to take his present job during the Bricker administration.

Margaret Truman's Sunday Music Debut Threatened by Cold

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, March 8 — Margaret Truman was confined to her hotel suite today suffering from a cold that may prevent her scheduled radio debut Sunday night.

Officials in charge of her appearance here said her physician will decide this afternoon whether she can carry out her singing engagement, her first professional appearance.

A spokesman said her illness is not serious and that she has been "nursing it along" for the past two days. However, he added, it might interfere with her singing.

"As of now," this source said, "she is going to sing."

He added that if the physician decided the cold is worse she may cancel her appearance.

A private reception in her honor scheduled for tonight has been canceled. If she takes the air with the Detroit Symphony orchestra Sunday night at 8 p. m. on WMRN and other ABC stations, the President's attractive, blonde daughter will be backed by Conductor Karl Krueger's opinion that the career she has chosen will be a "distinguished" one.

A program of three or four songs, including two Italian melodies, a Cuban folksong and a religious classic, is planned for Miss Truman's debut. The tentative selections are Tosti's "Serenata," Fernandez' "Cielito Lindo," Sadero's "Falanana Bamein," and Bach-Gounod's "Ave Maria."

While waiting for the big night, the 23-year-old coloratura soprano was "naturally excited" but as well poised as ever, according to a spokesman for the American Broadcasting Company.

For three days she has remained secluded in the 25th floor presidential suite of a Detroit hotel, practicing "two hours daily" and "getting as much sleep as possible."

Except for a "pictures-only" press conference Wednesday when Miss Truman auditioned before the Detroit conductor, she has had no contact with either newspaper reporters or the public.

The young artist's first rehearsal for her radio performance will take place only an hour before the broadcast time.

U. S. AIMS AT SECURITY PACT

Marshall Believes Temporary Treaty May Solve German Problem.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, March 8 — Secretary of State Marshall indicated today the United States hopes for a four-power security pact as an interim solution of the German problem pending the writing of an actual peace treaty.

Marshall, preparing to depart tomorrow for the foreign ministers' conference in Moscow, which will take up the Austrian and German situations, said completion of a four-power pact was of the highest importance. He left the impression that such a pact was the major U. S. objective at Moscow.

Marshall told American correspondents that such a security pact for a 40-year period would clear away many difficulties now blocking Allied peace settlements for Germany and Austria.

He said United States proposals for that sort of treaty, first made by his predecessor, James F. Byrnes, last year, were a declaration to the world of continuing U. S. willingness to accept responsibility in European affairs.

Some U. S. officials expressed belief such a pact would be welcomed by France and might serve to allay her traditional fear of German aggression.

Marshall said French President Auriol and Premier Ramamdier had given him at first hand their views on numerous questions puzzling Europe and confronting the foreign ministers at Moscow.

He said he also had studied the German situation here with the highest American military government officials and had arranged to talk with Gen. Mark W. Clark, who served as his deputy in drafting Austrian peace conditions at London last month.

Bevin Arrives In Moscow for Parley

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 8 — Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain arrived at the White Russian railroad station about noon today, first of the visiting foreign ministers to reach the Soviet capital for Monday's Big Four session.

"We shall spend the days ahead in trying to make some peace which will prevent any future aggression and let the whole world live in security," Bevin said on his arrival for meetings at which the foreign ministers will work on peace treaties for Germany and Austria.

He spoke into a microphone recording a message to the people of Moscow, which began:

"I am very glad to be back in Moscow again and bring your greetings from the British people to the people of Russia."

Expected late today or tomorrow was Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of France, also coming by rail.

Hundreds of Russians yesterday cleared Moscow streets of snow and ice in sunny weather, and others working at painting, cleaning and otherwise refurbishing the aviation industry building, where the ministers will meet; the railroad station awaiting their arrival, and the Metropole and Moskva hotels, where diplomats and foreign correspondents will stay.

O.S.U. Dean Says Crisis Here in Housing Dearth

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 8 — Cramped housing conditions for the 24,183 students of Ohio State university rapidly are approaching a crisis, Mylin H. Ross, assistant dean of men, declared today.

Five hundred new students, 75 per cent men, are expected to enroll for the spring quarter beginning March 25.

"This may be the decisive quarter for many of our married students," Ross said. "If they do not find living places for their families, many of whom still are living in other cities, this may be the end of their college careers—even though a lot of students still are far from their degrees.

"We are desperately in need of any housing space Columbus citizens can give or share."

A total of $11,134.92, less than half of Marion county's quota for the 1947 Red Cross membership campaign, was reported at the second meeting of workers held last night in the campaign headquarters at 193 East Center street. One township, Claridon South, reported $100 and was the only report from the rural districts.

Early End Not Likely

Hopes for closing the county campaign next Saturday—the time goal set by the workers—were a bit on the waning side when the reports were totalled last night, but before the meeting closed, the spirits of the workers rose and there was a feeling that with more hard work and time spent in making contacts the goal of $27,060 would be reached in another week. The next report meeting was set for Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock at the campaign headquarters.

The following are the reports from the residential districts:

MERGE OF ALL LABOR URGED

La Guardia Suggests Union; Ball Charges He Wants "Monopoly."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 8—Fiorello H. LaGuardia today suggested creation of an American Labor Congress to exert disciplinary power over unions and Senator Ball (R-Minn) promptly accused him of seeking more "labor monopoly."

"I call it cooperation," retorted LaGuardia, former mayor of New York, who styled himself the 'unauthorized spokesman of unorganized Americans."

LaGuardia, testifying before the senate labor committee, urged congress to use its influence to bring about a merger of labor organizations into a labor congress.

"You want one giant federation," Ball declared. "You want to give it real power, which the AFL and CIO don't have now. You want to concentrate this power at the top."

Ball argued for his bill which would reduce concentration of labor power by requiring that collective bargaining be on a local level.

"I'd like to see it tried, if it were not so costly," LaGuardia said. "I can assure you it would be very costly. There would absolutely be confusion and disorder in every industry."

Differs on Other Proposal

Ball also differed on LaGuardia's proposal for a system of industrial courts. Ball said this would amount to "government wage fixing."

LaGuardai recommended creation of a committee of congress members and representatives of labor and industry to study his proposal for a labor merger and congress, as well as ending legislation to change labor laws.

LaGuardia, co-sponsor of the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act enacted in 1932, said in a

MOTHER, TWO SONS SENTENCED TO JAIL

Change Pleas To Guilty in Trial on Assault Charge.

Three members of a Marion family were sentenced to terms in Marion county jail yesterday afternoon on charges of assault and battery after they changed their pleas to guilty at the opening of their trial before Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith.

They were Mrs. Lena Jackson, 47, of 415 Mary street and her two sons, Richard J. Casperson, 21, same address, and James E. Casperson, 25, of 144 East Farming street.

James Casperson was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail, Richard Casperson to 60 days and Mrs. Jackson to 10 days. A provision of James Casperson's sentence also provided that he may continue working at the Universal Cooler division of the International Detrola Corp. but must spend all except his working hours in jail.

Guilty pleas were entered by the mother and her two sons by their attorney, Carter M. Patton, following which testimony was heard to determine their sentence. Five state's witnesses, besides the three defendants, testified before the court.

The mother and her two sons were arrested following an altercation at the Hub Bar and Grill on South Main street several months ago. Walter Garner, bartender, and Robert Garster, co-proprietor, charged they were attacked when they refused to sell drinks to the Caspersons.

Attorney Frank Wiedemann assisted County Prosecutor James E. Reed in the prosecution.

Sun Spots Blur Much of Globe's Radio Reception

By The Associated Press

Sun spots and magnetic disturbances interfered with radio communications over a large part of the earth's surface today.

Press Wireless, In., in New York reported conditions erratic.

Associated Press radio circuits to London were sytmied for a time.

A spot on the sun 75,000 to 80,000 miles long was reported yesterday by Director Roy K. Marshall of the Planetarium at Franklin Institute, Philadelphia. He said the spot was clearly visible without a telescope, if the observer used a photographic film to shield the eye. Dr. Marshall said the spot was one of the largest in the past two or three years, and would disturb radio transmission until Monday or Tuesday.

In San Francisco, Press Wireless, Inc., reported last night it experienced a "complete curtain" on its communications from the Orient for eight minutes. All its stations in the Philippines, China and Japan were out during the period, Press Wireless said. Other radio communication companies said they were affected similarly during the period.

At Bloemfonstein, South Africa, the Harvard university observatory reported yesterday an eruption of sun spots which it said likely would cause widespread radio fading and various magnetic disturbances. The observatory said the spots were covering over about 500,000,000 square miles of the sun's surface and would reach the center by tomorrow.

RENT ACTION ON G.O.P. SLATE

Senators To Hear Report on International Affairs and Ceilings.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 8—The senate Republican policy committee today decided to submit to a conference of all G.O.P. senators Monday night a report on international affairs plus the question of continuing rent controls.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) said Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), chairman of the foreign relations committee, would report on international developments, in the light of President Truman's conference with legislative leaders Monday morning.

The Monday night session also will attempt to solidify Republican opinion on what to do about rent controls and the expiring OPA, Taft told reporters.

It is his personal opinion, the Ohio senator said, that congress should act soon to transfer rent, sugar and rice controls "so that OPA can be closed up as quickly as possible.

Taft said the Republicans may have to hold daily, instead of thrice-weekly, sessions of the senate, and night meetings as well, to keep abreast of their legislative program because of what he described as delaying tactics by the Democrats.

"There are indications of attempts by the minority to delay proceedings," he said. "There is an inclination on the part of the Democrats to indulge in unnecessary talk and debate so we may have to meet oftener.

Milk Price Takes One-Cent Drop

The second drop in price of milk here this year, effective as of yesterday, brought cost of a quart down to 17 cents. Price of all other milk products was reduced one cent likewise. A surplus supply of milk in this area was reported as reason for the price decrease.

Ty Cobb's Wife Sues For Half of Property

By The Associated Press

REDWOOD, CITY, Calif., March 8—Domestic troubles today struck the 39-year-old marriage of Ty Cobb, baseball's erstwhile "Georgia Peach."

Mrs. Cobb, alleging extreme cruelty, sued the all-time great of the diamond sport for divorce yesterday and asked the court for half of community property she valued at $7,000,000, $5,000 monthly alimony, $50,000 attorney fees and $10,000 costs.

Now 60, Cobb scoffed at the $7,000,000 figure, but the great base stealer long has been reported wealthy from earnings of stock in the Coca-Cola company and other concerns.

The couple has been separated since Aug. 25, 1939. Cobb termed the divorce action "no surprise."

BRITISH ENVOY, ACHESON MEET

Announcement Expected After Talk with Congressional Leaders.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 8—President Truman probably will make an announcement on the Greek situation Monday after he confers with congressional leaders.

The White House announced this today as the British ambassador and acting Secretary of State Acheson discussed Greek problems at the state department.

The ambassador, Lord Inverchapel, told reporters in response to a question that he had not delivered any note to Acheson.

Asked if Greece was discussed, Inverchapel replied: "Can't you use your heads?"

Presidential Secretary Charles Ross, discussing the meeting of Mr. Truman with congressional and government leaders Monday, told reporters:

"In all probability there will be some announcement at that time as to his plans regarding the Greek situation."

Must Await Monday Statement

Asked whether the President planned a foreign policy speech, Ross said:

"There will be no further announcement in that respect until after he talks with congressional leaders Monday morning."

To a question whether the President would send a message to congress, another whether he would address a joint session, or whether his position would be made known in a formal statement, Ross declined to say.

Ross also declined to elaborate on the crisis brought about by Greek appeals for financial assistance to bolster her economy. This caused the President to cancel his projected 16-day trip to the Caribbean area, which was to have started today.

Other Questions Included

It was understood that other questions concerning eastern Mediterranean countries, including Turkey, probably would enter the discussions Monday. The conference will be the second held since Great Britain informed the United States that she would have to cease financial aid to the Greek government.

In both congressional and diplomatic quarters, it was expected that Mr. Truman will ask congress for authority and money to shoulder the lion's share—and perhaps even more—of Britain's burden in Greece to bulwark southern Europe against the spread of Communism.

He called 15 congressional leaders of both parties to a White House conference Monday at which he presumably will say what course he has decided to take.

Task A Delicate One

Mr. Truman's task is a delicate one. His words will be weighed in Moscow for what they portend in future Soviet-American relations.

The decision will come—probably early next week—at a time when Secretary of State Marshall sits down in Moscow with the diplomatic chiefs of Britain, France and Russia in an effort to work out the future of Austria and Germany.

For this reason, it is expected that the President will phrase any public statement with caution, emphasizing the need of helping the hungry Greeks and ending their civil strife rather than the threat of Communist expansion.

The key legislators called to the Monday meeting include the leaders of both the house and senate, and the chairmen and ranking Democratic members of the committees which control expenditures and help guide foreign policy.

Smith Sees British Empire "Falling Apart"

The furore over Greece boils down to the fact the British empire is falling apart, Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion declared in the capital today in a special interview with Earl Berkley of the Washington bureau of The Associated Press.

In the interview he amplified and reiterated some statements made the previous day in an address on the floor of the house. An account of this speech was carried yesterday on page 5 of The Star.

In the interview Congressman Smith referred to England's proposal that the United States take over her military position in Greece—a job considered necessary to prevent civil war in that little country.

Recognizing the importance to the United States of trying to keep the British empire intact, Smith questioned nevertheless the

Big C. and O. Tunnel Bored

Under Construction for Years, Railway Finishes Largest Project.

Special to The Star

CLEVELAND, March 7—Boring of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway's newest and longest double track tunnel, being constructed on its main lines at Fort Spring, W Va., has been completed after nearly a year's work, the C and O. announced today.

Bored from both ends through limestone containing clay seams which made drilling and blasting difficult, the new tunnel is approximately 2,700 feet long from portal to portal.

The improvement, including relocation of tracks extending beyond the tunnel, total 1 09 miles and shortens the C. and O main lines by 3,600 feet It reduces a 303-degree curvature, obviates a 35-mile slow order at this point, and is expected to result in a saving of $80,000 a year in operating expenses

Work was begun at the west portal on March 26, 1946, and at the east portal June 1, 1946 Steel ribs to support the tunnel roofs were placed as the excavation progressed To move the solid rock, about 135 holes were drilled to a depth of 15 feet and shot every 24-hour cycle Each blast advanced the tunnel approximately 12 feet

Work was started immediately on the lining of the completed tunnel section with concrete The tunnel will have a maximum width of 32 feet, maximum height of 26 feet, six inches, above the top of the rails It is expected that traffic will be routed through the new tunnel for the first time about Sept 1, 1947.

ALASKAN POWER MAY SOLVE PAPER CRISIS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 8—Oscar L. Chapman, undersecretary of interior, suggested Friday one means of relieving the newsprint and paper shortage would be for the federal government to develop Alaskan hydro-electric power.

He told a senate small business subcommittee investigating the shortage that Alaska could supply from 20 to 25 per cent of this country's needs but that paper mills require considerable electric power not now available.

The department, he said, plans detailed surveys and engineering studies of the power possibilities and if the situation warrants, to seek the necessary authority and funds for development of the hydro-electric power in this area by a federal or territorial agency."

Chapman told the group that while the Alaskan pulp industry will serve small business, I regret to say that in itself, it is not capable of development by small business."

He said the industry must be developed "by very substantial financial interests able to assume heavy initial expenditures." He estimated construction and equipment costs of a plant at $20,000,000.

Chapman said each mill unit would require 25,000 horse power initially and twice that amount ultimately. Sites already surveyed would provide 800,000 horsepower, but the largest so far studied has a year long capacity of 32,000 horsepower, he said.

Chapman estimated it would take from two to four years, after the start of construction, to produce Alaskan newsprint on a large scale.

Motor vehicle mileage in the United States in 1945 was about 249 billion vehicle miles.

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATIONS

IN THE CHRIST OF THE CROSS WE GLORY

Today's Text: "For to me to live is Christ." Philippians 1:21.

"IN THE Christ of the Cross we Glory." The great Apostle Paul was a great interpreter of the cross. He had little to say about the earthly life of Jesus but he tells us a great deal about the cross. It was central in his thinking, in his living and in his preaching. For him "to live was Christ" and no other ever came nearer to living under its continuing power than did Paul.

We, too, must catch its glory and its power and one of the reasons for our spiritual lethargy today comes from our inability to measure up to the demands of the cross. Let it become central in your life.

REV. H. M. McADOW,
Pastor, Wesley Methodist Church.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Premature Infant

The mother of a premature baby is always anxious to know what chance her child has to live and whether it can grow into a normal, healthy baby if it does.

These are things which cannot always be told her at once because certain abnormal conditions may be present which will only show up later on. By and large, however, the most important factor in determining whether a premature baby will survive is its birth weight. This, together with the type of care the baby gets during the first few months of life, and especially the first few days, usually tells the story.

Other things too, in particular cases, may turn the scale toward life or death. Thus, the nearer the baby is to full term, the better its chance for life. The absence of disease, particularly in the mother, and an uncomplicated birth are also important.

Dr. Ralph M. Tyson of Philadelphia has made a 15-year study of premature births in many thousands of cases. He found the chief causes to be multiple births, that is, twins or triplets, toxemia or poisoning of pregnancy, certain abnormalities of the womb, illness in the mother and, in some cases, syphilis. For some unknown reason premature babies born of mothers over 30 years of age have less chance of surviving than those born to younger women.

During one year all mothers coming under Dr. Tyson's observation were given diets containing large amounts of vitamins and minerals. The number of premature babies born continued about the same as in other years but even so, the number of those weighing more than four pounds increased. This is most important because, as I have said, the more a baby weighs at birth, the easier it is to save it. The greatest danger was for infants born by breech, that is, with the buttocks first instead of the head.

The feeding of premature babies is important and, of course, the best milk for them is breast milk. These infants must also be safeguarded against infection and given enough fluid. The body temperature must be constantly kept up to normal by use of an incubator or heated bed. The humidity or moisture in the air must be kept high enough in order to protect the babies.

Expert nursing care by a nurse specially trained in handling premature infants also markedly increases the chances of the baby for survival. The giving of oxygen may help to tide the infant over a critical period. These babies do best when cared for in a hospital equipped with all the necessary things such as oxygen, incubators, and well-trained nurses who thoroughly understand the care of premature babies.

MT. GILEAD PREACHER. Rev. Russell Bowman of Columbus, above, will preach at the spring revival meeting of the Church of the Nazarene at Mt. Gilead, beginning Tuesday night. Song evangelist will be Carl Wasson of Cardington. Services will be at 7:30 each night through Sunday, March 23, Rev. W. W. Loveless, pastor, announced.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR 2 DEPARTMENTS CUT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 8—Budget cuts of approximately 34 per cent for the treasury department and about one per cent for the postoffice department were voted Friday by the house appropriations committee.

In the first departmental supply bill sent to the house floor since Republicans won control of congress, the committee made these recommendations for the two agencies for the fiscal year starting next July 1:

Treasury department: $1,871,317,500, a reduction of $862,716,750 from the President's budget estimates and $1,050,962,150 less than the department received for the current fiscal year. The totals are exclusive of $9,186,179,221 in so-called "uncontrollable" treasury appropriations including interest on the public debt, old-age pension trust funds and the unemployment compensation trust fund.

Postoffice department: $1,530,733,250, a reduction of $14,356,000 from the president's estimates and $7,642,069 less than the department received for the present year.

The committee said that technically the reduction for the treasury department was only about 16 per cent, since $1,245,000,000 of the $1,871,317,500 approved is made up of refunds of internal revenue taxes, customs refunds and drawbacks and other items of a non-operational character.

The bill will be taken up by the house next Monday.

You've got the sun in the morning and the moon at night — just like everybody else.

You've got little roads to explore, and pleasant places to go, and nice friends to enjoy life with, just as others do.

But there's one thing you can have that not everyone else can — if you do something about it.

It's in the extra lift you find in traveling in car-styling as fresh as tomorrow's morning glories, enduring as the classic lines of a Grecian vase.

It's in roaming the quiet little roads — or the busy big ones — with plenty of eager horsepower under your bonnet, all ready to Fireball you along or drift you serenely through calm and quiet moments.

It's in the feel of a car that's really big enough. Roomy enough for three-a-seat — husky and solid enough to be ever steady in its stride — stout enough to take the most rugged going.

It's in such plus-values as soft coil springs on all four wheels — bodies studiously mounted to be quiet and firm and true — a wheel light yet firm under your hand — an engine with the touch of perpetual youth in the fineness of its cylinder-wall finish.

In a word, it's in a Buick — style star and standout performer of this and many a season to come.

In a car bought not alone out of need or expediency — but plainly and frankly out of desire for something a bit better than the ordinary.

We say not everyone can have such.

That is simply because there's never enough of a most wanted thing to go round — and this is America's most wanted car.

To get it, you can't hang back. You have to get in ahead of the one who hesitates.

The moral plainly is: Order yours right now!

Auxiliary Picks 2 for Girls' State

For the first time in the history of the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Ohio, the auxiliaries are sponsoring a Buckeye Girls' State, which will correspond in training and study with the Buckeye Boys' State which has been an annual affair sponsored by the American Legion for some time.

A delegate and an alternate have been selected by the auxiliary unit to Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162 to attend the activities The delegate is Miss Joan Anderson, from Harding High school, daughter of Mr and Mrs Urton Anderson of 251 West Church street. If she is unable to attend, the alternate, who is Miss Irene Sink of Edison Junior High school, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Rowley of 972 Bennett street, will participate.

Only 300 girls from the state will be able to attend and the auxiliaries will be notified at a later date as to whether or not their delegate is accepted.

The activities are to be held on the campus of Capital university in Columbus opening at 10:30 a. m. Sunday, June 22, and closing Sunday morning, June 29.

The purpose of the Girls' State is to educate the young women in their responsibilities as American citizens, and they are given first hand information on problems of government and the contribution women can make to the welfare of the city, county, state and nation.

As in the Boys' State, the girls will have an election to select the officers which will rule over the activities.

At the meeting of the Legion Auxiliary Monday night in the Dugout, Miss Anderson and Miss Sink, the delegate and alternate, will be honored. Also present with them for recognition will be the two girls chosen by the Prospect post auxiliary, Miss Jeannine Griffith and Miss Joanne Kirk. They will be accompanied here by Miss Grace Jones, president, and Mrs. Charles Kirby, secretary, of the Prospect Auxiliary.

Obituary

Mrs Anna Katherine Evans, daughter of Fred and Mary Haas Vollmer, both natives of Germany, was born on October 6, 1885 in Pleasant Township, Marion County, Ohio She was one of nine children, and is survived by two sisters, Mrs Catherine Hoyman of Lancaster Ohio and Mrs Christian Evans of Galion, Ohio, and two brothers, George Vollmer of Lewiston, Idaho, and Charles Vollmer of Columbus, Ohio

On November 25, 1900 she was confirmed in the Trinity Lutheran church of Pleasant Twp, Ohio, by the Rev. W Weisman.

On May 28, 1908 she was united in marriage with John Evans, Jr., who survives, by the Rev. R H. Dielmann, in Marion, County, Ohio

She departed this life on Thursday evening, February 27, at 7:15

Mrs Evans was a faithful member of St Paul Lutheran church of Prospect, and with her husband was found regularly in the divine services. She was also a tireless worker in the St Paul Missionary Aid society and a newly elected officer in this organization Whenever there was work for her Lord to be done, she was found there with willing hands. She shall be sadly missed by those who worked with her and loved her.

The family wish to thank all who sent floral offerings, the organist and singers for consolation brought in Christian hymns and to the faithful neighbors and friends who have made this tragic bereavement easier to bear.

"My Shepherd"

The Lord, my Shepherd, walks with me
In pastures cool and green.
My feet are led along the path,
My hands in His serene.
Content I walk in ways of peace
Or tread the rocky steep.
I cannot fear or doubt or want,
While I His precepts keep.
He speaks, I feel no want but Him
For I obey His will
Here in His comradeship divine,
His Word with job shall fill
And when the fearsome vale of shade
Shall bring death near to me
I'll close my eyes and take His hand;
I shall not need to see.

*Of our husband and father, George B Grace, who passed away one year ago today, March 8, 1946.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;

Which never can be filled.
God in His wisodm has recalled
The boon His love had given,
And though the body slumbers here
The soul is safe in heaven.

But your friends both far and near,
Will share with us in the grief we bear
In the loss of a friend so dear.

LINER CRIPPLED BY $1,500,000 BLAZE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 8 — The liner John Ericsson, swept by a spectacular $1,500,000 fire, lay crippled at her pier today while passengers sought other means of passage to their European destinations

The fire, which blazed for nearly four hours yesterday afternoon, swept through the superstructure between the bridge and the two stacks of the 20,067-ton U. S. Lines vessel, engulfing the officers' quarters and badly damaging the promenade deck.

The fire did not harm the British liner Queen Elizabeth, berthed at the other side of the same pier, but sailing of the giant vessel was delayed for more than one hour.

The pier was only a block distant from the scene of the disastrous blaze that left the liner Normandie a charred hulk five years ago.

Fire Commissioner Frank J. Quayle said a short circuit caused the blaze.

TWO CLUBS APPEAL LIQUOR PERMIT LOSS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 8—Appeals of two private clubs, whose liquor permits have been revoked, were on file in Franklin county common pleas court today.

Attorney George J. McManagle of Cleveland filed the appeals yesterday to recover permits revoked for the 66 club of Cleveland and the Lake Shore Home club in suburban Euclid.

The permits were revoked by the state board of liquor control last week at Cleveland following citations against them by Attorney Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins.

In the order revoking the permits, the liquor board said the clubs were not in existence three years prior to issuance of the permits, that "false material statements" were made in applications, no regular dues were assessed members, and that they were not "bona fide clubs."

McManagle, in the appeals, argued that the liquor control board did not have the jurisdiction to adjudicate the validity of a "duly organized" club.

Another Notable Concert Series

ASSURANCE that the Marion Community Concert association would become permanently established was evident from the outset of its very first season. Probably at no time in the city's history has there been a similar civic, entertainment and cultural undertaking meeting with such speedy success and popular approval. This record was achieved with the annual concert series for several reasons—it was something vitally needed by Marion and vicinity, preliminary details were carefully worked out to guarantee a firm and lasting foundation, and management was placed in the hands of able, conscientious and enthusiastic leaders.

Adherence to this policy of sound organization and efficient management, aimed solely and entirely at providing the highest possible standard of musical entertainment, has been maintained ever since, with the result that the annual concert series is unquestionably here to stay.

Now the Community Concert association is launching its enrollment of memberships for the 1947-48 season. There is little if any need for us to urge public support of the new enrollment. Memberships are certain to be sold for the full capacity of the Palace theater, where the concerts are presented. This can be counted upon, for all previous presentations have delighted those who attended and the next season will bring entertainment surpassing even the superb programs of the past.

With this capacity enrollment in prospect, people of Marion and vicinity who wish to make sure that they will hear and see next season's outstanding program are advised to get their names on the Concert association membership list without delay.

OPAddendum

IN CLOSING the books on OPA, a stroke of public business now scheduled to take place next June 30, if not sooner, congress should spare a few hundred thousand dollars for a final study of that wartime agency's work. A committee of economists and perhaps political scientists should review its record and make recommendations for improvement in the event price and profit control should become necessary again.

This was the federal government's most ambitious experiment in economic regimentation. It worked extremely well during the war. But as soon as the compulsion of wartime patriotism was removed, OPA began to repeat the experience of price and profit control in other countries. Black markets sprang up. Production and distribution were handicapped by existence of parallel systems, one legal, one illegal. Technically, thousands of tradesmen, suppliers, manufacturers and consumers conducted their affairs in violation of law. All these things occurred, were noted and buried somewhere in the official records. They would be of great benefit if interpreted as basic American experience with economic regimentation. In fact, they could be shoved down the throats of the Americans who will start hollering for statism when the war boom finally burns itself out and the grim realities of competitive free enterprise come into focus again.

Worthwhile Trip

PRESIDENT TRUMAN returns to Washington after a visit to Mexico during which the United States' south-of-the-border prestige rose several points. The President's stock is enjoying a bullish market, too.

While he was in Mexico, the hat-dancers had a go at the "Missouri Waltz," and if the steps somehow bore a close resemblance to the peppery Mexican folk dances, surely the spirit was willing. Then the President, confident, gracious and exuding good will, a highly-desirable non-dutiable export, received from President Aleman the title of "Champion of American Solidarity."

Leaving his beeming hosts, the President returned by way of Waco, Tex., where he received the doctor of laws degree from Baylor university, and delivered a speech elucidating the administration's foreign economic policy. It was a summation of facts generally known, but was a clear explanation of just how the administration proposes to help revive world trade.

The president made a good impression in Mexico. His Waco speech climaxed a worthwhile trip.

Shrinking Social Security

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Government Insurance Defects Uncovered.

THE New Deal gave and the New Deal took away. That is what a lot of people are learning now—people who gave their votes because the late President Roosevelt told them he would guard them against the "vicissitudes" of life.

Roosevelt spoke on these "vicissitudes" when he urged social security in 1934 and succeeded in getting his plan adopted in 1935. But his New Deal dealt in contradictions. Inflationary theories grew in pre-war years. And the war, like all wars, whittled away the dollar. The dollars paid by people for future security are in custody. But they will never again have the same potency.

The food basket, as figured by Dun and Bradstreet, costs more than it did even immediately after the war. Prices will probably fall, but they will have hard going to get back to 1940. And before any considerable deflation occurs, we may be sure that the government, regardless of party control, will use its great powers to hold prices up. Probably in our time we shall never see the 1940 level again.

Grim "Joke"

This involves heavy consequences to millions of social security contributors who have paid a percentage of their income which was not easy to spare. Many of those who are getting pension payments feel they are the victims of a cruel joke. They are learning that governments are capricious guardians. Their dollars bring only two-thirds of the food and half of the clothing they used to bring.

What makes the pinch on social security greater is the shrinkage in prospective real income from savings and insurance. This money was set aside against "vicissitudes," too. Many of those who ordinarily would be dependent on pensions are earning something. But that condition cannot last forever.

If federal social security is to pay larger benefits, where is the money to come from? The social security board, in its last report, makes it clear that the states will have to supplement federal funds by considerable amounts. The relations of the board in its dealings with the states have been very active.

New Kind of Profits

The argument against higher rates on payrolls will grow stronger as the real nature of corporate "profits" is understood. Many apparent industrial profits are not profits at all. In reality, there are more losses. Take the case of a factory built eight years ago. Construction costs are doubled. The price of machinery has risen still more. If the manufacturer writes down as depreciation only the usual 10 or 15 per cent of the purchase value, he cannot replace machinery, remodel his plant or provide additions without running into red ink. The dollars he seems to make are shrunken tokens of value.

Meanwhile, social security agencies, federal and local, are meeting the question which has been urged over and over since 1935. The enormous reserves necessary to sustain pensions and grants must grow at an accelerated rate. These are mainly in government securities. Why pay benefits from income at all? Why all this accumulation? Why not pay year by year directly from receipts, which will fluctuate in accordance with the real purchasing power of the dollar?

Just a Minute

What Do They Mean, "Tight Little Isles?"

"Britain is slowly returning to normalcy," a wire service reports, "Brewers have been given permission to resume production."

One by one, the empire's essential industries are being reactivated. And, with characteristic composure, the British cousin puts thirst things first.

And indeed, could there be a more welcome harbinger of better days, after a long, hard winter, than the first bock of Spring?

During the recent crisis Britons learned a few to their own surprise, that it isn't only for darts that they frequent the corner pub.

Yeash, the only thing brewing in Britain of late has been discontent.

And while temperatures have been constantly sub-freezing, the most widespread complaint has been, not of the cold, but the drouth.

For the British are traditionally a stout people . . although, in a pinch, they will drink Scotch.

And to Attlee's explanation of the absence of potables, "We must export or perish," the average Britisher has answered "You call that a choice?"

Russia Acts As Britain Fades

By WALTER LIPPMANN

ONLY a few days after the British government put us on notice about its withdrawal from Greece, the Soviet government slammed the door against the American proposals on atomic energy. These two most important events are related in that the British decision increases incalculably our responsibilities and commitments vis-a-vis Russia whereas Russia's UN Delegate Gromyko's stand must express his government's estimate of the military value of the atomic bomb, and its policy for dealing with our present monopoly of that weapon.

As our liabilities have risen sharply owing to the decline of the British power, the Soviet government has taken a position which discounts, almost unreservedly, the present value of the atomic bomb—regarded by so many of us as the decisive weapon in the balance of power.

The essence of Gromyko's argument is the demand for the immediate disarmament of the United States in atomic weapons. It must have been obvious to Gromyko that the United States would not agree. The American position has been that it would disarm its atomic weapons when its system of international control was set up.

Gromyko's Position

If Gromyko had expected to negotiate seriously he might have argued that American disarmament should begin soon in return for firm promises to negotiate on the main elements of the American plan. But Gromyko's position now is that the United States should disarm, and that it should also surrender all hope of getting any of the important features of its own plan.

We have to conclude that as a matter of fact the Soviet government expects us to continue to have the monopoly of the atomic bomb, that it does not believe we can use it effectively, and will, therefore, make no concessions to us. For the net result of Gromyko's argument is that we continue to have the bomb.

That this would be the net result must have been evident to Gromyko and to the Kremlin. The question then is why does the Soviet government take a position which, stripped of all its dialetic, leaves us in physical possession of a monopoly of this enormous weapon of war?

Why does the Soviet government take the very line most certain to produce the very result which her fiercest enemies here and in Britain have wanted, namely, no international control and the continuing American monopoly of the bomb?

Why does Gromyko reject in the name of the Soviet Union, what Senator McKellar prayed not so long ago, that the senate would reject in the name of the United States?

It must be because the Soviet government has come to the conclusion that at the present time it can discount the atomic bomb.

In the calculation which has led to the conclusion, the weakness of the British empire has undoubtedly been a determining factor. The liquidation of the British empire in Asia and North Africa is going to mean that the United Kingdom is to become primarily a western European state.

No doubt it will long maintain its connection with the English-speaking nations of the British Commonwealth. No doubt it will also maintain its colonies in Africa and elsewhere. But the main imperial position, which extends from the eastern Mediterranean and Egypt through India to Malaya, is being liquidated.

British Position Changes

The main interest of the British people in the British Isles is, as a consequence, more than ever bound up with the destiny of France, Belgium, the Netherlands, the Scandinavian countries, Germany, and the continent as a whole. As Britain ceases to be an imperial world power, she becomes necessarily a European state.

As such, she can no longer regard the continent of Europe as the theater in which the giant non-European powers contend. She must take the European view, which is essentially different not only from the Russian, but also from the American and the imperial British view. She must preserve Europe, because she is becoming part of it, from being used as the battlefield of another world war, and from being the arena in which the ideological conflict is fought out to the bitter end.

Under these conditions the strategic importance of the atomic bomb is due to be revalued. It is a reasonable inference from Gromyko's argument that the Soviet valuation of the bomb is a great deal lower than that placed upon it by many Americans, and by Englishmen like Winston Churchill when he made his Fulton (Mo.) speech.

The Russians, no doubt, assume that the atom bomb will never be used against them unless there is a total war. They must assume further that a total war can break out only if Britain and the leading countries of Europe are engaged.

A direct and isolated war between Russia and America is for all practical purposes impossible. But if, as is now increasingly probable, Britain must throw in her lot with Europe and must prevent such a war, then the atomic bomb can be discounted as decisive in the world balance of power.

The neutralization of Britain as a world power has, therefore, altered radically — much more radically than we can as yet appreciate, more radically than small measures on our part can possibly offset—the situation in the world to which our postwar diplomacy has been adapted.

A TOUGH SEAT

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, March 8, 1937.

Wallis Warfield Simpson, accompanied by her host and hostess, Mr and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers, left Cannes for what was reported reliably to be a two months' visit to Tours, in eastern central France.

Four British destroyers were standing by a burning, sinking British merchantman 90 miles out in the Bay of Biscay after the ship had reported she was bombarded by a "vessel of unknown nationality."

Mrs. Richard Parish of North Prospect street was hostess when the Marion Sorosis club entertained with a guest party. Mrs. Grace Parlette Sigfritt was a guest speaker.

S. W. Zachman was elected president and Alton Lindsay vice president at ameeting of the Wonder Bible class of Calvary Evangelical church in the home of Mr. Zachman on Hane avenue.

Mrs. Emma Bondley was elected worthy high priestess and her husband, Elmer R. Bondley, was named watchman of shepherds at the annual election held by Marion Shrine No. 15, White Shrine of Jerusalem.

George Sorreles and Fred P. Haas were elected to represent Maron Typographical Union No. 675 at the sixtieth annual Ohio Typographical conference in April at Toledo.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, March 8, 1927.

An earthquake in western Japan claimed a death toll of at least 2,000.

William Dowler, Harding High school student who had been selected as a member of a national high school orchestra consisting of 250 high school musicians which played at a meeting of the National Education association in Dallas, Tex., was given an additional honor when he was chosen one of 65 to give a special concert at the convention.

Enos G. Van Atta, 75, died at his home on the Prospect pike.

The Colonial Embroidery club was entertained by Mrs. Leo Keller at her home on North Main street.

Mrs. Albert Click was hostess to the San Souci club at her home on the Richland pike.

Mrs. George Pluchel, formerly Miss Dorothy Shoots, whose marriage had taken place in February, was given a miscellaneous shower of gifts at a meeting of the Delta Game-A Bridge club held at the home of Mrs. John Muntsinger on Powhatan street.

The Dilemma Begins

By STEWART ALSOP

ATHENS, March 8—What are the odds? How would an astute gambler assess the chances of Greece becoming part of the Soviet Balkan bloc in the near future, with all the dark consequences which that would entail? This reporter has been prodding large numbers of knowledgeable observers with these questions. The answers have inevitably varied widely. But the wisest of those questioned have replied: "It largely depends on the United States."

The sound sense of that observation is underlined in many ways, not least by the fact that those genial Kentuckians, Paul Porter and Mark Ethridge, are the two most decisive figures now in Greece. Nor does the observation apply only to Greece. The British decision to evacuate Greece in midsummer and to turn the Palestine problem over to the United Nations are parts of a larger pattern.

The sadly depleted British treasury and the desperate need for manpower in England have made it flatly impossible for the British to continue to play the role of the chief obstacle to Soviet expansion in the Near and Middle East. This partial British withdrawal is leaving in turn a partial vacuum. The chances clearly are that willy-nilly, the United States will be obliged to fill it for the simple reason that if we don't the Russians will.

U. S. on Spot

Everything depends on how the United States chooses to go about it. It is here that American foreign policy seems faced with its great dilemma.

It is always a temptation for junketing journalists to argue from the particular of personal observation to the general of broad striking conclusions. Yet perhaps the nature of the dilemma is most easily explained in terms of two Greek women.

Greek Woman A is exquisitely dressed (Lanvin, perhaps? or Molyneux? or only a good imitation?). The perfume is certainly good French. She speaks English with an Oxford accent; French with a Parisian accent, and presumably Greek. She talks well. She was, of course, in the resistance, in a ladylike way, in Athens. She carried letters from some one to some one else. She loves America and she loves democracy. But the trouble with Greece, her Greece (her voice termbles movingly), is that it lacks discipline. The Greek masses must therefore be disciplined. Greece needs a leader, a strong man. The radicals must be suppressed. The people must learn that it is necessary to work, to sweat. Will you have some more champagne?

All the Greek Women A in Greece might fill four or five times over the three smart Athens night clubs, where the lights are always kept full on to give the ladies an opportunity to inspect the work of each other's dressmakers.

Another Greek Woman

Greek Woman B is knitting a sock, using a surprising number of long thin steel needles. She wears a sweater and a black skirt turning green with age. It is impossible clearly to distinguish her shoes since the street in which she is standing is ankle-deep in mud. The street is in a mountain village some miles north of Salonika. On either side of this street, the houses are mostly shells or rubble. The Germans burned them, the woman says. She also remarks casually that they burned a hundred schoolboys (doubtless she exaggerates; it was probably nearer 10), after locking them in the schoolhouse. Her face is old (it is impossible to guess her age) and thin and defiant. It softens at the word America. She has a nephew in New York. Guerrillas, the Annarites? Her face is expressionless as she points toward the snow line of the mountain above the town.

Greek Woman B is most of Greece. Greek Woman A is richer and prettier. But Greek Woman B is stronger, if for no other reason because there are more of her.

The large mass of the Greek people is neither Communist nor pro-Soviet. The best estimate of pro-Communist strength is about 15 per cent. Yet the number is growing. Even the great majority of the guerrillas are not Communists, though their leaders are. Their number is growing too. The reason is not far to seek. It lies essentially in the quality of dreary hopelessness which permeates the whole atmosphere of the mountain village of Greek Woman B.

It is strictly in the selfish American interests to use the enormous American economic strength to replace their hopelessness with hope. Yet, the Kremlin and the instrument of its policy in Greece, the Greek Communist party, are cleverly and effectively spreading the conviction that the Soviet Union is Greek Woman B's only friend while the United States is her bitter enemy and the chosen knight of Greek Woman A.

Home Hazards

Ohio's homes continued to be the most hazardous area in our state in 1946 J. C. Hiestand, president of the Ohio State Safety Council, announced that 38.2% of the fatal accidents occurred in homes. This is a substantial increase from 1945 when household mishaps produced 34.6% of the accident fatalities.

Falls again are the major cause of this type of accident, but alarming increases were shown in firearms mishaps and mechanical suffocation. Slight rises appeared in poison and gas deaths. Ohio's home accident ratio exceeds the national average of 34%.

The motor vehicle was a trifle more deadly in Ohio than in the nation. 34.5% of our accident deaths were produced by motor vehicles, it was 34.3% in 1945, the national average was 33.5%.

Collision with pedestrian is the largest factor in this field, showing a 20% increase in the past year. Non-collision deaths jumped 400% while collisions with fixed objects rose substantially. Condition of vehicle and speeds excessive for driving conditions appear to be important elements in these groups.

Still Working On "The Voice of America"

They're still making changes in that United States State Department radio broadcast to the Russians. Our representatives in Moscow report that it doesn't quite ring the bell along the Volga. This column thinks the criticisms justified. A Russian and an American are broilers under the radio skin. Both like their radio programs light, lilting and with a few cash prizes here and there.

If there is a Russian Hooperavich Rating Service that calls up Russians and asks "What program are you listening to?" it would reveal that Ivan, too, goes for the one with the most entertainment value out of a long news summary to get Duffy's Tavern, Henry Morgan or the racing results.

* * *

The pattern of "The Voice of America" has already been changed several times, but we offer further suggestions calculated to cheer the Russians, not to bore them.

PROGRAM

Opening—Senator Claghorne, Titus Moody, Finnegan and Archy in a quartet rendition of "Got a Girl in Calico."

Piano Recital by Harry Truman—"Huggin and Chalkin'," "May I Call You Sweetheart," "You Rascal You."

Washington Cabinet Meeting Theme Number—"Oodles of Noodles."

Song Jimmy Byrnes—"The Things We Did Last Summer."

Echoes from Lake Success:

"I'm Always Chasing Rainbows
Pie in the Sky,
Dream Again,
Sooner or Later
Skating Serenade.

Who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder?

Talk by Gen. Marshall with soft music accompaniment. You Always Flirt, 'I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas," "Old Buttermilk Sky."

Breakfast with Elliott & Faye.

Song by Henry Wallace—"I Do Do Do Like You."

Uncle Donnovitch.

Break the Bank (Conducted by the United States Treasury Department).

Double or Nothing (The $60 Question—Is There a Life After Potsdam?).

Acheson's Alley.

Truman's Tavern.

Concluding Musical Number by American delegates to the Moscow Conference, "Didja ever have a Feelin' Ya Wanted to Go and Yet Have a Feelin Ya Wanted to Stay?"

Note—It's not perfect, we admit. A few more Calypso numbers, with Gen. Marshall commenting with snatches from 'Doin What Comes Natural' every now and then would give the program a lift. And if we really want to win over the Russians to our way of life, ditching Communism completely, haven't we got to give away more automobiles, electric washing machines, dishes, watches, diamond rings, trailers, fur coats, etc. How about a prize of a yacht to the Russian submitting the best essay in 500 words on "Can There Be Any Genuine Friendship Between Allies?")

The Brooklyn Dodgers and Gov. Dewey were among those getting refunds on income taxes this year. In the case of the Dodgers it is easy to understand. For one thing their losses, especially in the last few games, were greater than anticipated. And then too the management ran into heavy expenses for treatment of nervous disorders brought on by Leo Durocher.

Gov. Dewey's overpayment would seem to bear out reports that despite all those golf lessons he still overswings.

It is the refund of $47,168,157 (Phew-w!) to the Aluminum Company of America that dazzles us all. It seems to prove that all bookkeepers have their off days. Or perhaps some playful executive said 'Let's overpay by fifty million dollars and see if anybody cares!"

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: Up here at the Corners I've had plenty of time to think things over this winter and have begun to wonder about management. I have heard a lot about the postwar inefficiency of labor, all of which may be true and probably is, but no one mentions management.

When a man reaches my age he should say what he means. A lot of stuff that workmen are being blamed for is the fault of meat-heads who'd be hard-pressed to run a popcorn stand right, yet have the gall to call themselves managers. All you can say in their defense is that they're the best we got.

What I want to say is that they aren't good enough. If management as a whole could be made twice as good as it is, as a whole, it still wouldn't be any too good. Furthermore, being in a sort of rambunctious frame of mind right now, I want to add that I have no sympathy whatever to waste on the kind of management that gets caught short, then claims the cards were stacked. Watching the deal is part of management, isn't it?

Management is supposed to manage—and that covers a lot of territory. I've heard that management is more difficult now than ever before in history; which may be true. That doesn't change my notion that management must manage, or take the consequences, and that part of the mess we're in—meaning too little of everything too late—must be charged to bad management. Not all the things wrong with this country can be blamed on labor unions.

The unions are handy whipping boys right now, and I'm not defending any of the dopey or vicious things they've done. I'm just telling you—no charge, no obligation—that the snafu which is driving us nuts can't all be blamed on people who punch time clocks. I know of too many instances right around here where business are going to pot because the guy supposed to be running them has run out of brains. But since he can't be expected to admit he's outmatched, it's easier to blame the other fellow (i.e., the government, the unions, the New Deal, the inefficient employes, the communists, or whatever's handy.

I mention this by way of reassuring you that I am keeping track of what's going on. As long as I've known anything about them, labor and management have been blaming each other. Right now, management is blaming labor. During the depression labor was blaming management. That's the way it goes. It's a lot of nonsense. Why don't they both blame the iron-heads who are too thick to add up two and two and get four?

Your aunt has been having a touch of flu and I'm doing all my own housework after taking only two bottles of your marvelous medicine, that's the wrong spiel. I'm taking care of the house and doing all the cooking. Worst meals I ever ate. I'll have to get her up tomorrow whether she feels like it or not. Say hello to the folks.

Cotton Corners. Uncle George.

The Power of the Cross

A Sermonette

By REV. W. E. ZIMMERMAN
Pastor of First Church of the Nazarene

d I, If I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me." John 12:32.

Thus spake Jesus as he was nearing the end of his earthly ministry. No claim for such omnipotent power had ever been made by God or man before. Search the Scriptures and you will find plenty of places where God demonstrated his power to destroy man, but never did he venture out very far in making a sweeping promise to save man. But now Christ comes out boldly and declares that he is going to save all men by drawing them unto himself. What enables him to make this claim? A new instrument of power is to be placed in his hands. What is it? It is the cross.

There are three deductions made by our text. First, the cross alone will not draw all men unto him. There are some who seem to think the power is in the cross, thus they wear it as a charm or an emblem. But the cross alone has no power to save man. There had been plenty of crosses upon which men had died before Jesus came. But up until this time the cross was only an emblem of shame and reproach. It was a thing most despised. What was it that could take the thing most despised and repelling in the world and make it the greatest drawing power in the world? It was the fact that Jesus, the Son of God, was to die upon it.

Some one says, the cross had nothing particularly to do with the drawing power. The drawing power is in Christ and not in the cross. But that is not correct according to our text. The second induction that we draw from this text is that Christ alone will not draw all men unto him. There are some that want a Christ without the cross. They do not like the blood and the sacrifice and the suffering that goes with the cross. They want a Christ that was strong and lived and died as a great hero. But such a Christ will not draw all men unto him. It takes a Christ upon the cross to be a Saviour. Seperate Christ from the cross and you simply make him another great religious leader. He would go down in history along with Confucius, Buddha and Mohammed, and would have many years ago been localized to one portion of the world. No, the cross alone is not sufficient. That being the case I present the third conclusion of our text. It is the Christ upon the cross that has the drawing power for all men. The cross without a Christ will soon become a religion of superstition. A Christ without the cross will soon become a humanitarian religion and the church a social institution. But a Christ crucified upon a cross will become the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.

The power of the cross upon which the Son of God died is proven by the fact that its power is not waning after nineteen centuries. Today wherever the cross is preached it transforms men. It lifts society out of sin. We sensed something of the power of this cross in this last war. Wherever the cross had been preached there were kind hearts and helping hands to help minister to our boys in distress. Yes, the text is still true. Wherever Christ is presented to the world as the crucified Saviour he still attracts. He still has power to draw all men unto himself. The red and yellow, black and white are still seeking him.

In this twentieth century what is the most popular song? Is it some that make the "Hit Parade?" No, it is that song that portrays the Christ upon the cross that goes as follows:

"On a hill far away, stood an old rugged cross,
The emblem of suffering and shame,
And I love that old cross where the dearest and best
For a world of lost sinners was slain.
So I'll cherish the old rugged cross,
Till my trophies at last I lay down;
I wil cling to the old rugged cross
And exchange it some day for a crown."

Plans for Two Low-Cost One-Story Modern Houses Presented

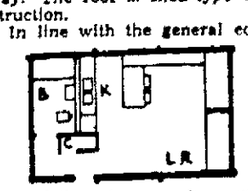
YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

The first of two one-story house plans presented today shows a minimum-cost small house measuring approximately 26 feet across the front and 16 feet deep. In spite of the size it offers excellent accommodations. There is a complete bath room, full kitchen with a modern dining counter, and a combination living-sleeping studio. The two large couches across one end of the studio can be made up into three-quarter size beds. They are built-ins, with storage spaces beneath.

This plan is particularly good for a summer house, a shooting lodge, or any type of dwelling devoted to simple but comfortable living. The walls are well provided with glass areas which afford good light throughout the day. The roof is shed-type construction.

In line with the general economy of the scheme, only a minimum of furniture is required. Two or three easy chairs and a rug will furnish the house comfortably.



The second plan shows a slightly larger house, which follows the first plan in general but provides a bedroom in addition. It includes a double built-in bed and two unusually large built-in wardrobes. By closing the door from the living room, the bedroom and bath are completely isolated from the rest of the house. In this plan there is also an abundance of window space and excellent ventilation in all directions.

To arrive at the most economical building, everything about the construction should be carefully studied. Both houses are intended to be built on concrete slabs, which are damp-proofed, but they may also be built on concrete or masonry piers which would be less expensive. Standard window sash should be used throughout, as a group of several of them will give the same amount of light and be less expensive than picture windows.

The most economical wall construction will be frame, standard wood studs on 16-inch centers over doubled 2x4 sill. Exterior finish may be shingle, clapboard or flush siding.

Argentine is second only to the United States in the amount of corn grown.

Floor Spotted With Paint

Q.: What will take spots off my floor made by splashing silver radiator paint? Must they be scraped off?

A.: Some brands of radiator paint can be removed by wiping up with turpentine. If this fails, try rubbing lightly with very fine steel wool.

"Creosote" Deposit

Q.: We have been burning wood in our boiler and have noticed that a layer of sticky black substance has been deposited on the inside. Will this harm the boiler, or will it disappear when we begin to burn coal?

A.: The deposit ("creosote") will burn off in time. I advise you to discontinue burning wood in your boiler, for the creosote deposit might give much trouble if it should harden inside, the boiler and chimney.

Damp Inside Walls

Q. Our newly purchased home is built of tile and covered with stucco. This property faces the east, and for some reason the south side of the plastered walls downstairs show signs of patches of dampness. It isn't exactly caused by rain, as it shows even after several days of fog. There are no cracks or blemishes on the stucco. Can you explain the trouble?

A. The plastering may have been applied directly to the masonry walls with no air space between, so that the plaster takes the same temperature as the stucco, and condensation takes place. This can be stopped by applying plaster to lath on furring strips, or by covering the cold plaster walls with insulating board, preferably laid on furring strips. Or the trouble may be that the stucco is absorbent and becomes very wet in rainy or damp weather. In that case, it would be advisable to coat the stucco walls with a damp-proof cement base paint, which leaves a waterproof cement film on the surface of the stucco. If the damp spots appear near windows or doors it may be necessary to fill all open spaces between stucco and window frames with a caulking compound. You should call in a competent building contractor to examine the house and correct the trouble.

The adjoining service room has a separate entrance and provides laundry facilities, a large closet, lavatory and entrance to the basement stairs, as well as covered access to the garage.

YOUR INCOME TAX

The Estimated Tax Form

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

... INGTON, March 8—This ... for people who, by ... 15 must file an estimate ... 1947 income tax and ... the first payment on it.

... ember! You're only mak... estimate. You can't know ... penny ... 1947 ... will be. ... government ... for some ... That will ... be examined at ... end of this ...

James Marlow

... will need ... 1040es to ... your 1947 ... tax re... Some people, ... depending upon their case, also ... either Form 1040 or the ... on sheet which goes with ... can check the taxable ... on the back of them.)

... 1947 income will be ... $5,000, you don't have to ... the estimated tax step-... You'll find the tax on ... income in the table on the ... of Form 1040.

Included in that table is an ... allowance—for under $5,000 people — of about 10 per cent ... deductions for things like ... and medical care.

Won't Worry About Deductions

So they don't have to worry about claiming deductions, unless they want to claim more than 10 per cent In that case they can't use the table. They will have to work out their tax, claiming the deductions they want.

If you're in the $5,000 or over class you work out your 1947 estimated tax step-by-step — as you did in making your 1946 return — and find your tax rate in the table on the back of the instruction sheet.

The $5,000 or over people automatically can claim deductions of $500 when they figure their estimated tax.

If they want to claim more than the $500, they can but — they like any under-$5,000 people who want to claim more than their 10 per cent — will have to prove them when they file their final return in 1948.

Following is an example of how to fill out the 1947 estimated income tax return. You can take it step by step with paper and pencil You'll have to use paper and pencil, anyway, in figuring your own tax.

Example Given

You, married, two children, have a weekly salary of $160. For 52 weeks that's $8,320. Subtract your standard $500 expenses. That leaves $7,820

From the $7,820 subtract your $2,000 in exemptions — you get $500 exemption each for yourself, wife, two children — and have left $5,820 That $5,820 is the part of your income which is taxable.

Now look at the instruction sheet, mentioned above.

Where it shows income between $4,000 and $6,000 you'll see the tax on the first $4,000 of your taxable $5,820 is $840, plus 26 per cent of the remaining $1,820 over $4,000 That 26 per cent is $473 20.

You add the $840 and the $473.20 for a total tax of $1,313.20. But that is not the tax you have to pay. There's another step. You deduct 5 per cent of that $1,313.20 tax. The 5 per cent is $65.66.

Represents Tax

The $65.66, subtracted from the $1,313.20, leaves $1,247.54. That's your estimated tax for 1947. The full tax you figure you'll owe.

But you don't have to pay all that now, or at the end of 1947, because most of it will be taken out of your salary by your boss before the end of 1947.

How much out? You know the boss is withholding a tax of $22 40 every week from your $160 weekly salary. Multiply that $22.40 by 52 weeks, for a total of $1,164.80 to be withheld from you in 1947

Now, for the first time, you can pick up your Form 1040es and on Line 1, where is says "estimated tax for 1947" — you write your total tax of $1,247.54.

Underneath, on Line 2, write the tax boss will withhold from you, $1,154.80, and subtract it from the $1,247.54, and write the answer, $92.74, on Line 3.

That $92.74 — the difference between the $1,247.54 total tax and the $1,164.80 to be withheld from you—is the tax you'll have to start paying by March 15.

You can pay it in full March 15 or in quarterly installments of $23.18 — most people pay quarterly — on March 15, June 15, Sept. 15 and Jan. 15, 1948.

If you're going to pay in quarterly installments, write the $23.18 on Line 7. Filling out the rest of Form 1040es is simple (Answer questions 4 and 5 quarterly, if they apply to you)

Tear off the bottom part of 1040es, filled out, and turn it into the internal revenue collector with the tax you owe, in installments or in full.

The government allows you to make an error of 20 per cent in your estimate. If you discover later that you've made a larger error, you can correct on those quarterly payment dates: June 15, Sept. 15, Jan. 15, 1948.

The Prince Albert coat was named not for the consort of Queen Victoria but for their oldest son, later King Edward VII.

Delaware is often called the Diamond state, because of the concentration of wealth in such a small area.

CRILE HOSPITAL HIT BY DOCTOR

Psychiatrist Declares Vet Patients Get No Treatment, "Vegetate."

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 8—Veterans at Crile hospital are receiving "custodial" care and are allowed to "vegetate," rather than receive active treatment for mental ills, asserts the resigned chief of the neuro-psychiatric department of the veterans administration institution.

In an interview with a Cleveland Plain Dealer reporter last night, Dr. Alan B. Adam announced his resignation, effective March 19, as neuro-psychiatry director of Crile, and declared

"Unless management conditions are corrected in the matter of care for the mentally ill, Crile's neuro-psychiatric department will become a mere way station" for the VA's hospital for the mentally ill at Chillicothe, O

Dr. Adam asserted his resignation was caused by actions of Crile manager Dr. Harrison S Collisi and "a front-office clique who still think they are in the army."

On Verge of Firing

Commenting on Dr. Adam's statement, Dr Collisi asserted, "If Dr Adam had not resigned, his resignation would have been requested in the near future His resignation will not impair the standards of medical treatment of the neuro-psychiatric service"

"In fact," Dr. Collisi continued, "it will be a wholesome development and will enable the hospital to correct conditions that could not be accomplished while Dr. Adam was a the hospital"

However, Dr. Adam asserted "Dr. Collisi's attitude toward the neuro-psychiatric service has been one of obvious antipathy. He has treated the service as though it was a necessary evil. He has not been sympathetic toward psychiatry."

Declaring he wanted to see veteran patients receive a "square deal," Dr Adam accused the Crile management of "playing politics" by admitting numerous patients when there were no accommodations for them at the hospital.

This procedure, he said, forced other patients to be sent to the Chillicothe hospital and, at one time, created "complete chaos in the convalescent ward"

Shortage of Nurses

The resigned official declared there was a critical shortage of nurses and attendants at the hospital, but said the Crile manager "brushed off" requests for additional help and "refused to consult with me on the hiring or transferring of nurses"

Dr. Adam concluded that he had "nothing to gain" by making his criticisms of procedures at Crile, and added: "I am risking my professional standing because I want to see these conditions corrected Dr. Collisi has played politics insofar that he has failed to properly inform various veterans organizations of the true situation regarding accommodations at the hospital"

He asserted Dr. Collisi had "succumbed to pressure, referring to follow this route rather than stand up. His attitude has been one of keeping conditions from the newspapers and politicians, and not correcting them."

Dr. Collisi asserted in reply to Dr. Adam's accusations that his executive duties were "made more difficult by frequent absence of Dr. Adam from duty x x x He was obviously not on duty

France Wants Only Security From Eternal German Menace

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Writer

PARIS, March 8—For France, the Moscow foreign ministers' conference represents the greatest and perhaps the last opportunity she will ever have to find security from the eternal menace of the Germans.

MORIN

Three items within the lifespan of a man, the gray hordes have crossed the Rhine.

In 1871, France made the best of her defeat and settled with a bribe of land and money. In 1918, an exhausted France was overruled by her allies on the question of occupying Germany and splitting it up politically.

In 1947, French delegates are determined to write into the treaty a set of political, military and economic plans which they believe will make it impossible for Germany to attack again

The documents for those plans run into thousands and thousands of words They can be summarized in one word security

For the French, nothing is so important as security from that danger in the east There is no present for the average Frenchman and there can be no future for him until Germany is so changed, fundamentally, that she cannot or will not go into war.

Have Three Proposals

To achieve security, the French propose three things

1 Internationalizing the Ruhr so that that vast forge will no longer be controlled by Germans and turned to making war material

2 Separating the Rhineland from the body of Germany in order to form a buffer state between France and the Reich.

3 Creating a federal union of German states, designed to bring a form of democracy to the German people

Regarding the first, the French plan would place the Ruhr coal mines under the control of the Allies Two corporations would be organized to administer them

To Remove Steel Mills

At the same time, the idea is to remove the steel mills from the Ruhr and reestablish them in France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg Instead of sending coal from these countries to the Ruhr, as has been the case for the past two centuries, the French would bring German coal out of Germany.

The supreme authority for this giant industrial complex, on which so much of Europe depends, would be the United Nations security council The actual administrators would be directors appointed from each of the Allied nations

The French see this as the only means of taking from Germany her arsenal of war

The second phase of the French plan, relating to the political separation of the Rhineland, is not a new one, it is more than a century old

"Different People"

French politicians have long argued that the Rhineland Germans are a different people from the inhabitants of the rest of Germany They are predominantly Catholic by religion Their psychology and temperament—according to this French theory—is more Franco-Belgian-Flemish than it is German

Allegedly, they have been subjugated by the Prussian Germany and would welcome the opportunity to be free of the Prussian yoke

The French would like to see an independent state created from the Rhineland Germans. They believe that, in time, it would tend to gravitate in its politics and economics toward the west

As for the third section of the French blueprint, it stipulates simply the creation of a federal German state, headed by a president who is elected from among the representatives of the individual states

He would name the federal ministers and preside at cabinet meetings

He would have no portfolio of his own

The "parliament" would be composed of delegates from the states It would remain in office for four years French authorities say they are not ready to confer the powers of a centralized government on this regime Their idea is that the state government should retain the greater weight of responsibility for the time being

The proposed French list of ministers for this government does not include a minister for war or national defense Only state police would be left as an armed force in the new country

Unlike the United States and Great Britain who favor a 20-year period of occupation, the French plan sets no time limit

"The end of the occupation," a French official said, "will come when Germany is denazified and her war potential is removed"

There are indications today that France will not take a stand on Russian demands in Silesia But since they compare, in a way, with the French idea for the Rhineland and the Saar observers believe French delegates will support Russia at the conference.

Earlier, in debate on the house floor, the Ohioan said he understood that a 'hush hush' conference of congressional leaders of both parties was called by President Truman to discuss the "lowdown on the crisis"

Saying there is no attempt by the British government to cloak the serious concern over the possibility that Communism would try to capitalize "for the benefit of Moscow' if Britain quit Greece, Mr Smith added.

"This should be enough to give the American people a pretty good idea of the situation that confronts them

"But if the character and nerve of the English people have been so enervated that they can persuade themselves that slavery—'all Socialism involves slavery,' said one of England's great prophets—is preferable to liberty, which surely appears to be the case, what in the world can the United States do to save their empire?"

LA GUARDIA

statement prepared for the senate labor committee

"Under our form of government, one national parent body for labor would fit admirably and would result in greater benefit and security for wage earners and stability for industry"

Testifies at Close

The former New York mayor testified as the senate committee made ready to close six weeks of hearings on bills to revamp the labor laws

LaGuardia suggested that the proposed American Congress of Labor, consolidating the AFL CIO and other unions, be divided into four national departments

1 Transportation, including railroad, water, air and land workers

2 Mining, taking in coal, all minerals and oil

3 Professional and entertainment workers.

4. All other skills and trades

LaGuardia coupled his merger recommendation with a plea that congress avoid "hasty" action on labor legislation Both matters, he said, should be studied by his proposed special committee, which would report not later than next October

The study committee would be made up of four senators, four representatives, four labor officials and four industry leaders Of the congress members, four would be Democrats and four Republicans

Has Three Proposals

He said the study should cover legislation which would

1. Provide "appropriate measures" to prevent strikes against the government or any government agency.

2 Set up machinery for settlement of jurisdictional disputes "without costly strikes' This would cover union disputes over recognition as well as quarrels between unions over which should do certain work

3 Devise a way for settlement of strikes which affect the health and safety of the people or the national economy

PROPOSES INCREASE IN OHIO'S REPRESENTATIVES

Cantwell Wants Number Hiked To Help Urban Communities.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, March 8—State Rep. John F. Cantwell (D-Manoning) disclosed today he was proposing a constitutional amendment to boost the number of state representatives to 165 in order to give fairer representation to urban communities

The house now has 139 members.

"It is obvious that city legislation can be enacted only by sufferance of the rural delegates." Cantwell wrote Ohio's newspapers, "notwithstanding the fact that the 67 city legislators represent 4,513,000 people and the 72 rural legislators represent 2,392,000 people"

The 67 city legislators represent 16 counties in which live 67 per cent of Ohio's total population, he said

The proposal must be approved by three-fifths of the assembly, Cantwell explained, then by the electors.

CHANGE PROPOSED IN OHIO'S LIBEL LAWS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, March 8—A bill of mysterious authorship to revise Ohio's libel laws and place the burden of proof of privilege on newspapers or other publications has been found in the Ohio legislature hopper.

The sponsors, Reps William J Hart of Cleveland and G D Tablack of Youngstown, both Democrats, said only that they were asked to introduce the bill. Majority Leader Paul L. McCormick of Huntsville, who promised to back the bill if it came to a committee hearing, said he thought it was written by a lobbyist whom he did not name.

Hart and Tablack indicated that the bill grew out of what they termed 'careless" publication of house members' names in connection the current investigation of the liquor department Tablack declared libel statutes needed tightening to make newspapers more careful.

The bill, sent in just before the deadline for introduction and unnoticed in the crush, would leave determination of damage awards to a jury and would delete from the existing statute the clause "any mitigating circumstances may be proved to reduce damages"

"In all such actions," the draft says, "the defendant (publication) shall have the burden of proving the privileged status of the alleged libelous words or article and the lack of malice"

Another section would make "proof of the publication * * * a prima facie case and proof of monetary damage shall not be required"

Death of either or both parties to a libel action would not end it under the bill The bill, however, would not change the first part of the present law, which reads:

"In an action for a libel or a slander the defendant may allege and prove the truth of the matter charged as defamatory Proof of the truth thereof shall be a complete defense"

Dramatic Love Story at Ohio

"Nora Prentiss" Stars Ann Sheridan, Bruce Bennett and Kent Smith.

A dramatic love story, "Nora Prentiss," is now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater. It co-stars Ann Sheridan, Kent Smith and Bruce Bennett. Featured players include Robert Alda, Rosemary DeCamp, John Ridgely and Robert Arthur.

Told in the picture is the strange tale of Nora Prentiss, a girl who gives up everything for her love, a love which eventually involves her in a series of unusual situations.

Based on an original story, Ann Sheridan is presented in the title role as a singer in a San Francisco night club. She is cynical about life and men until she meets Dr. Richard Talbot, played by Kent Smith. The two are attracted to each other, but Nora, after a number of secret meetings with him, decides that it would be impossible for them to be happy and so she decides to leave town.

"The Brasher Doubloon," a new mystery thriller will open Friday for a run at the Ohio. George Montgomery and Nancy Guild are seen in the starring roles, with Conrad Janis, Roy Roberts, Fritz Kortner, Florence Bates and Marvin Miller heading the supporting cast.

Based on a thrilling story by Raymond Chandler, the lead character in the film is a cynical and fast-talking private detective Philip Marlowe. His excursions into homicide find him tracking down a stolen rare coin and then back-tracking into blackmail and multiple murder.

However further trouble arises when he finds himself falling for the woman in the case, Nancy Guild, who portrays a neurotic young secretary and believes that she is a murderess.

Delaware Board Finds Building Costs High

DELAWARE, March 7—The Delaware school building program was the topic of discussion at a meeting of the Delaware city board of education and the citizens advisory building comittee Tuesday night at Willis High school. The opinion expressed by the members was that construction costs are too high to launch Delaware's school building program at the present time and additional funds must be raised before two old structures are abandoned.

Sixteen months after voters had approved a $330,000 bond issue, initial steps to construct two elementary grade buildings in the North and South districts were taken when the board employed a Columbus architectural firm to draw preliminary plans.

However, rough cost estimates, based on plans informally approved by the board several months ago, have indicated the North and South schools cannot be built under present conditions for less than $440,000. This estimate covered only the bare buildings and made no provisions for fixtures and furnishings.

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND and Lew Ayres are the starring players in the absorbing mystery thriller, "The Dark Mirror," the featured picture of a double billing which will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater.

Olivia de Havilland, Lew Ayers Co-Star in "The Dark Mirror"

"The Dark Mirror," co-starring Olivia de Havilland and Lew Ayres, with Thomas Mitchell heading the supporting cast, will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater as the featured picture of a double billing. Also to be shown is 'Affairs of Geraldine' starring Jane Withers and James Lydon.

The former, a murder mystery full of suspense, has Olivia de Havilland in a dual role portraying twin sisters, one of whom is a homicidal maniac and the other in love with a psychiatrist called in on the case by a puzzled detective. Lew Ayres is seen as a young psychologist and Thomas Mitchell is cast as a smart detective who refuses to abandon his hunt for a murderess although he runs up against a blank wall in his search.

"Affairs of Geraldine" tells of a tomboyish girl, the only daughter of a prosperous small town family, who has never given a thought to love or marriage until her mother dies and leaves instructions to find a husband for her. However she runs away from home and goes to the big city, determined that if she must get married she'll do her own husband-hunting.

Thursday only, the Marion Lecture-Recital club chorus with Phillip MacGregor as soloist will be heard in the fourth and final program in the Marion Community Concert Association series.

The double feature billed for Friday and Saturday is "Mr. District Attorney" starring Dennis O'Keefe and Adolphe Menjou with Margaret Chapman and Michael O'Shea, and "That Brennan Girl" with Mona Freeman, William Marshall, James Dunn and June Dupier.

The story in the former is of a girl suspected of three murders and of how she keeps an honest young lawyer from acquiring dangerous information about her employer, head of an organization guilty of a multitude of fraudulent deals.

"That Brennan Girl' tells the dramatic story of Ziggy Brennan, who is influenced from childhood in her loose-living way by her rowdy mother.

Heading the supporting cast in the picture are Robert Mitchum, Edmund Gwenn and Marjorie Main.

In "Nothing but Trouble," Laurel and Hardy play a butler-chef team who cannot keep a job. However, they finally find them themselves hired by a socially ambitious woman, Mrs. Hawkley. Things begin to happen when they are given their first assignment, which is to serve a dinner to the guardian of a young king-in-exile.

Billed to be shown Tuesday and Wednesday are "Two Smart People" and 'Shanghai Gesture.'

Starred in the former picture are Lucille Ball and John Hodiak. It tells of a swindler who admits stealing half a million dollars in gilt-edged certificates and is willing to give himself up to the law on condition that he be permitted a last four-day holiday with the girl he loves. In order to make sure that the smooth racketeer won't get away, the detective who is to take him into custody, chaperons the party. Heading the cast in 'Shanghai Gesture' are Gene Tierney, Victor Mature and Walter Huston.

The double feature for Thursday through Saturday will be 'Thunder in the City' starring Edward G. Robinson, and "Desert Horseman" with Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette.

Three Champs from Last Year Entered in Golden Gloves Tournament

One Will Defend Title; Two Move Up in Weight Class

Some of 1946 Finalists Also Back for Try at 1947 Fight Glory.

By ART MYERS

Three 1946 Golden Gloves champions will be fighting Monday night when this year's version of the A.A.U. bouts gets under way at the Marion armory.

Only one of the boys will be defending his title, however. The other two have outgrown their division during the last year and will be competing in the next higher weight bracket.

The three champs are Pat Patterson of Delaware, Lawrence Strahm of Carey, and Bob Hunt of near Bucyrus.

Patterson took the light-heavyweight crown last year but this time will be with the biggest boys at 185 pounds

Bantamweight King Back

Strahm was 1946 bantamweight king but now is fighting at the top edge of the featherweight class He has reported his poundage at 125, and if he eats a large meal that night he'll find himself a light weight.

Bob Hunt, the mighty mite, is the only one to stay in his weight class He's still a paperweight, but this time he's 10 pounds over his last year's weight of 54

Two other paperweights who were undefeated last year will be fighting as flyweights this time They are Eugene Hunt of near Bucyrus, 109, and Gene Coulson of Mt. Victory, 100.

Some of last year's finalists who came out second-best in the title goes are on hand also They include Jack Draper, welterweight; Briss Craig, lightweight, Kenneth Chevalier, flyweight; and Ward Watkins, heavyweight.

In addition, there are about 10 other veterans of last year's wars back for another shot at glory.

Entries now total 91, according to latest tabulations announced by Y's Men's club officials. They break down by weight class as follows: paperweight, 26; flyweight, 6; bantamweight, 4; featherweight, 6; lightweight, 17; welterweight, 13; middleweight, 11; light-heavyweight, 5; heavyweight, 3.

Joseph Yannitell today repeated his announcement to fighters to be at the armory Monday night at 6 p. m. The early time is absolutely necessary, he said, so that contestants can be weighed, examined by physicians, dressed, hands wrapped and matched so the bouts can start on time.

Fighters should bring their own robe, trunks, shoes and towels, he added.

BIG NINE HONORS AT STAKE IN SHORT TILT

"20-Minute" Game To Decide Conference Champion.

By The Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill., March 8—The Big Nine basketball title, the conference's individual scoring champion and possibly a berth in the NCAA playoffs will be decided tonight in an unprecedented "20-minute" game between Wisconsin and Purdue

This fantastic finish of the Western conference cage season reduced to capsule size has no parallel in sports All the honors bestowed in a rugged campaign—during which each school played a total of 70 hours or more on the courts—are involved in this last half finish of a game which was tragically interrupted Feb 24 by the collapse of a bleacher section in the Purdue field-house Three students were killed.

The Evanston High school gymnasium, a neutral court, will be the stage for Big Nine's cage windup For the start of the last 20-minutes of action the score board will show Purdue 34, Wisconsin 33.

A victory for Wisconsin would give the Badgers the Big Nine crown outright with nine victories and three defeats A victory for eighth-place Purdue (4-7) would provide a three-way tie among Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

Bucks Hope for New Scoring Mark in Big 9 Swimming Meet

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 8—Ohio State's national championship swimming team hoped today to establish a new point-scoring record in the windup sessions of the Big Nine swimming meet here

The Bucks didn't win everything in sight yesterday, but they came home with four places each in both the one-meter diving and the 220-yard free style events Ohio State's ace Bill Smith bettered the 11-year N.C.A.A. 220-yard free style record while setting a new western conference mark

The Bucks held a healthy 49 points. Behind them in second place was Michigan with 29 points fm ahead of third place Iowa's 11

Smith's triumph in the 220-yard free style effort was one of the easiest of his scintillating career. Bill whipped through the water with strong-powered strokes, winning in 2 minutes 8.1 seconds against the former Western conference record time of 2 minutes 11.2 seconds established at Evanston, Ill., in 1943 by former Buckeye Keo Nakama.

Last night's summaries:

50-yard free style—won by Hirose, Ohio State, second, Weinberg, Michigan, third Lopin, Iowa, fourth, Harder, Purdue, fifth, Hobart, Ohio State. Time 23 8

150-yard backstroke—won by Holiday, Michigan, second, Maine, Iowa, third De Groot, Ohio State, fourth, Fetterman, Ohio State, fifth, Brueckner, Minnesota. Time 1.33 7.

220-yard free style—won by Smith Ohio State, second, Hill, Ohio State, third, Stager, Michigan, fourth, Ryan, Ohio State; fifth, Adell, Ohio State. Time 2 08 4 (new western conference record, former record 2 11 2 by Keo Nakama, Ohio State, in 1943)

One-meter-diving—won by Harlan, Ohio State second, Anderson, Ohio State, third, Strong Ohio State; fourth Evans, Michigan; fifth, Calhoun, Ohio State. Points, 154.7.

300-yard medley relay—won by Michigan (holiday, Sohl, and Weinberg), second Purdue, third, Ohio State, fourth, Iowa, fifth, Minnesota. Time 2 51 8 (new Western conference record; former record 2:56.7 made by Michigan in 1943).

SHOW ACCUSED ARMY DODGER GOT REVIEW

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 8—Serge M. Rubinstein, 38-year-old international financier on trial in federal court on draft evasion conspiracy charges, succeeded in getting his status reviewed by the presidential board of appeals through Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, according to documents presented yesterday at the trial.

The presidential board affirmed Rubinstein's 1A status, as available for military duty. Previously, the local board of appeals had refused unanimously to review the 1A classification.

Irving H. Saypol, chief assistant U. S. attorney, continued to present letters, affidavits and telegrams filed to support Rubinstein's claims to be classified as 2B, on the ground that he was essential to the war effort and because of the financial requirements of various dependents.

The government said Hershey came into the case in August, 1943, after representations had been made to him in Rubinstein's behalf by the late attorney William Stammler.

On trial with Rubinstein on charges of conspiracy to falsify his draft status are James C. Hart of Lee, Mass., former president of the Taylorcraft Aviation Corporation of Alliance, O., and Allen Gordon Foster of New York, former director of the Panhandle Producing and Refining Company.

Rubinstein said in his appeal that he was president of three companies engaged in the war effort.

IRISH-ROSARY GAME BRINGS CAGE FEVER

Title-Hungry Fans Plan Descent on Westerville Gym.

If what the fans at Marion's downtown gathering places say is true they're going to get to Westerville tonight by hook or crook to see St. Mary play Columbus Rosary for the central district class B championship. Starting time is 8 p. m.

It has been a long time since Marion basketball fever has gripped so many people The Irish won a district title in 1942 and tonight they are gunning for another in what should be the most colorful match this tournament has produced.

Local fandom will have to go all out if they are to surpass the Rosary turnout. The Columbus parochial high school has been drawing the largest body of rooters at all matches so far Besides going by automobile, the school chartered five buses to transport rooters to the semi-finals.

After tonight's match the winner will be presented a championship trophy and the loser will be given a runner-up cup.

Each member of the teams which play tonight will be awarded an emblem such as is worn on key chains

The St Mary tournament roster is Drake, Schuler, Bray, Stuber, Baldauf, Smith, Pruzzo, Weis, Moloney and Cusick

Winners Fade As Ohio Cage Payoff Time Rolls Around

Frazeysburg, Upper Arlington All Alone in Undefeated Classification.

By The Associated Press

It's payoff time around Ohio and every day there's a shortening line at the winner's window as the high schools speed toward the state basketball championships.

Moving out of the winner's circle Friday night for the first time were Bryan, Bettsville and Ridgeville—leaving Frazeysburg as the only undefeated team in class B and Upper Arlington as the sole unbeaten class A team.

Byran's first defeat in 20 games was the surprise of the night losing 52 to 36 to a Defiance team which it had beaten twice during regular season play. The score was tied at 29 when the third period ended, and Defiance (16-4) put on a spurt that Bryan was unable to halt.

Frazeysburg in 29th Win

Frazeysburg won its 29th by handing Woodsfield a 35 to 32 trimming and now faces Dresden for the fourth time this season Dresden is just 12 miles from Frazeysburg, and if there's one team in the world Frazeysburg wants to beat it's Dresden. This game will be a not one

There's another hot one coming up at Logan Saturday evening—a game involving those two bitter rivals from Perry county, Glenford and Corning If you're not sitting in your seat at Logan when you read this there isn't much sense in going over to see the game as the stands are probably filled right now

Bettsville's first loss in 26 games came at the hands of Gibsonburg 41 to 38 which held the lead most of the time Gibsonburg (20-4) was last year's champ and will meet Salem (23-1) Saturday.

Win Streak Ended

Ridgeville's streak of 18 wins was ended by a strong Columbiana (20-1) by a 40 to 37 margin Which means two fine teams pair off Saturday when Columbiana (20-1) meets Akron Ellett (16-1) in one of the three final games at Kent.

Two of the B teams already into the regionals next week are Plain City (26-1) which defeated Marysville by 40 to 38 in a double overtime game at Westerville and Phillipsburg (20-2) which had to go one overtime to trim Waynesville (18-1) by a 31 to 29 margin

In class A it also took Canton Lincoln two overtime periods to drop Canton Central Catholic 50 to 48 in a game at Youngstown. There were other close games on Friday's cards, Ashtabula edging Cleveland Shaw 36 to 33, Toledo Woodward winning the Toledo finals 33 to 29 from Toledo Waite, and Warren Harding squeaking past Salem 37 to 34.

The lowest scoring game of the week was Barberton's 24 to 16 victory over Akron Buchtell. Barberton is coached by Harry Strobel who tutored Bellevue to the state championship two years ago.

Troy-Luckey went to the regionals with a 35 to 28 score over Sandusky St. Mary and Bradford, fourth in the state tournament last year, continued its drive with a 38 to 33 nod over Enon

Programs on the Air

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 8—Seldom in radio has there been a time when a program and its guest gained the attention being paid to the appearance of Margaret Truman as coloratura soprano soloist with the Detroit symphony at 8 Sunday night on ABC. It all is reacting highly favorably to that network, although the arrangements were made at Detroit, primarily through the conductor, Dr. Karl Krueger.

Miss Truman's share of the hour's concert is expected to be around nine minutes, in which she is to sing light concert numbers as well as Gounoud's "Ave Maria."

In view of all the circumstances, coupled with the fact it not only is her radio but professional debut, she should have one of the largest audiences ever listening to a symphony broadcast. This despite the fact she will be on the air within the same hour that two of the program leaders, Charlie McCarthy and Fred Allen, perform on NBC.

Just to check exactly on the listener response, ABC has requested special Hooper survey. This also would be indicative of the size of the audience.

In addition, special recordings are to be taken, made up in appropriate albums and presented to her parents, President and Mrs. Truman, and her grandmother, Mrs. Martha Truman of Grand View, Mo.

SELECTED STOCKS ATTRACT SUPPORT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 8—Selected stocks attracted support in today's market on the idea Friday's sharpest relapse in four months had been overdone but many leaders continued to seek losing territory.

The list negotiated a series of dips and rallies after a fairly fast opening. Activity, however, generally was on the downside.

Transfer for the two-hour session ran to around 700,000 shares.

In the resistant area were International Harvester, Du Pont, General Electric, Westinghouse, Anaconda, Kennecott and N. Y. Central.

Laggards included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Boeing, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Smelting, Western Union "A," North American, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Gypsum, Pennsylvania Railroad, Southern Pacific and Southern Railway.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

WITH my eyes on Mary, I handed my manuscript to Olga with the message to her on top. With relief I saw that Mary's head was burrowed into her pillows with her face turned away from us.

If she were not asleep, she was giving an exceedingly good imitation of slumber, but I was taking no chances. As Olga's eyes looked up, startled, at the heading "Olga, Attention!" which I had put at the top of the page, I put my finger to my lips, and nodded ever so slightly toward Mary. Then I pointed to the couch, and, looking around, she saw the real or simulated slumber of her stepson's wife as I had seen it.

She nodded her comprehension, and taking all of the manuscript up, she attentively read the page I had written to her, with its questions to be answered. Then watching my hand with its fingers clenched into the palm as a sign that Mary's eyes were closed, she took up the pencil I had smuggled to her, and wrote the answers to my questions.

Lifts Her Head

But each time she wrote a word, she lifted her head, and looked at my clenched fingers, and I knew that she was taking no chances on Mary's not being asleep, and the possibility that she suddenly would change her position, and see what we were doing.

When she finished the last word, she looked at my clenched hand again, and then swiftly divided the manuscript, keeping part of it with the sheet of blank paper in her own possession, and returning the other half to me with the finished answers to my question.

"Well, how do you like it so far?" I asked in casual tones.

"I love it," she said enthusiastically. "I am not a critic, but I do not see what you have to 'iron out,' as you put it."

"Those pages you gave me back already have been pressed," I told her smiling. "See what you think of the rest of them."

Sheets of Manuscript

Still facing Mary on the couch, I took up the sheets of manuscript she had given me, and gave my attention to the one on the top. I saw that Olga was writing busily on the sheet of blank paper, looking up at every other word to see if my fingers were still clenched. Keeping my fist doubled, I scanned the answers she had given to my questions.

"Yes, absolutely" she had agreed that neither one of us must be in Mary's apartment when Noel should come home.

To the question about Noel getting in touch with his father, she had written "No, unless I send him secret word to do so."

To the third question as soon as I know it myself."

"Yes," she had replied to my request that she tell her husband I was seriously concerned about Mary.

She had answered all my questions, but I knew that now she was writing something which was important for me to know. It was ten minutes, however, before she handed the paper to me, so slowly did she work on account of watching my clenched hand.

Hears Regular Breathing

I looked over at Mary, heard her soft, regular breathing, and would have sworn that she was asleep. But I kept a corner of my eye on her as I read what Olga had written.

"I am counting on one facet of Philip's many-sided personality," she went on. 'He is the soul of chivalry, and when I get the chance to tell him of what you fear for Mary, and of her remorse for letting him down, everything will be all right. But—I must choose very carefully the time for telling him. And now, I think, dear Madge, I would better go back to Philip.

"I will send Olga down to you if I have news, or if I wish to ask any question of you. But I do not think I will dare leave again until I know Philip's final decision."

With a sudden realization of something yet to be done, I leaned forward when I had finished reading her message, and spoke in matter-of-fact tones.

"Olga, dear, would you mind carrying on here while I go over to my living quarters? I won't be but a minute or two, but there is something over there to which I must attend."
